

Kosan Crisplant to Be Appointed Gazelle of 2009

Kosan Crisplant is appointed Gazelle company of 2009 by the esteemed Danish business daily Børsen (www.borsen.dk).

A Gazelle company is defined as a company that has shown a positive growth rate over the past four financial years in terms of either turnover or gross profit, and during the same period has at least doubled the turnover or the gross profit. The appointment is based on objective criteria and data supplied by The Danish Commerce and Companies Agency (DCCA) (www.eogs.dk).

The Danish business daily Børsen has identified the growth elite of Denmark every year since 1995 and the gazelle has become a symbol for growth businesses. Kosan Crisplant is now a member of an exclusive group of select Danish companies.

The appointment follows several AAA ratings by D&B, Dun & Bradstreet of Denmark, for stable growth and highest creditworthiness.

"It is with great pride that we accept the appointment as Gazelle company of 2009, which shows that even in challenging times there is a growth potential for a company such as Kosan Crisplant", says Managing Director and CEO Anders C. Anderson, and continues "Our success is credited to our staff, who fully deserves this acknowledgement for our achievement, and not least the trust our customers invest in us".

Kosan Crisplant's aim at business development and support of the customers' businesses, and innovation and marketing of important product news that modernize and move the market for filling of gas cylinders, show that a proactive approach to the market has been fruitful."
